

Parochial Register, Co. of Argyll, COLONSAY

Deaths 1848 - 1854

Transcribed by Kevin Byrne, Colonsay, from Microfilm of OPR 539-2/1, with invaluable assistance of Norman Newton, Inverness County Libraries, in December 1996. Tom Parkin has patiently checked much of the material and corrected a number of errors. This is a private copy for personal research use, not for publication.

This version corrected to 01 April 2003

N.B. Words underlined are uncertain

Words Emboldened have been confirmed by cross-reference

Words Italicised have been submitted by a third-party

Words in [square brackets] are hints to researchers

Every attempt has been made to copy exact spelling in the original. Dates of entries are in a standard form - years are reasonably firm but the margins of the microfilmed pages are very dark and it is likely that one or two actual dates will need to be corrected. It is suggested that this text be used as a reference tool and that the actual source be re-examined to confirm any specific entry.

Please advise Kevin Byrne of any errors noted. No attempt has been made to correct original errors, nor to interfere with original spelling.

Although the period covered in the Register is short, it does include the immediate post-famine period, when the community was beginning to suffer from the many diseases to which it had become prone. Some of the entries are quite poignant, even after the elapse of 150 years.
